

Williams, Robert ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7771-2415> and Wilson, Bryan McGovern (2013) Cumbrian alchemy. UniPress University of Cumbria.

Downloaded from: <https://insight.cumbria.ac.uk/id/eprint/1519/>

Usage of any items from the University of Cumbria's institutional repository 'Insight' must conform to the following fair usage guidelines.

Any item and its associated metadata held in the University of Cumbria's institutional repository Insight (unless stated otherwise on the metadata record) may be copied, displayed or performed, and stored in line with the JISC fair dealing guidelines (available here) for educational and not-for-profit activities provided that

- the authors, title and full bibliographic details of the item are cited clearly when any part of the work is referred to verbally or in the written form
- a hyperlink/URL to the original Insight record of that item is included in any citations of the work
- the content is not changed in any way
- all files required for usage of the item are kept together with the main item file.

You may not

- sell any part of an item
- refer to any part of an item without citation
- amend any item or contextualise it in a way that will impugn the creator's reputation
- remove or alter the copyright statement on an item.

The full policy can be found here.

Alternatively contact the University of Cumbria Repository Editor by emailing insight@cumbria.ac.uk.

Cumbrian Alchemy

Late March 2010, two men one British the other American, are deep in conversation in a small but busy sushi bar in New York's Midtown district. They had first met some seven months earlier in rural Pennsylvania during a demanding, immersive and stimulating workshop based on alchemy and had discovered much by way of common ground existing between them ... Over the next two hours or so their conversation ranges across subjects as diverse as The Manhattan Project, European post-Renaissance hermeticism, long term underground repositories for the storage of high grade radioactive material within the nuclear industries of the US and Europe, William Camden's Britannia and archaeological monuments in the county of Cumbria in north-west England. This is the genesis of the Cumbrian Alchemy project.

Cumbrian Alchemy brings American artist Bryan McGovern Wilson and British artist and academic Robert Williams together in a collaborative project which explores the complex relationships between the nuclear, renewable and mineral extraction industries of the Energy Coast, the land, archaeology and folklore of North Lancashire and Cumbria. The two artists have interests in working with impossible materials and territories such as deep-time, ghosts and the supernatural, narrative, speculation and invocation. Cumbrian Alchemy is an enquiry into the place, the mythic spaces and the monuments of the region, and what may be imagined through encounters with these places of power.

PUBLISHED BY UNIPRESS CUMBRIA
UNIVERSITY OF CUMBRIA
ISBN 978 0 9531131 1 8

CUMBRIAN ALCHEMY | ROBERT WILLIAMS AND BRYAN MCGOVERN WILSON | UNIPRESS CUMBRIA | UNIVERSITY OF CUMBRIA

Cumbrian Alchemy

ROBERT WILLIAMS AND BRYAN MCGOVERN WILSON

