
Downloaded from: http://insight.cumbria.ac.uk/id/eprint/2858/

Usage of any items from the University of Cumbria’s institutional repository ‘Insight’ must conform to the following fair usage guidelines.

Any item and its associated metadata held in the University of Cumbria’s institutional repository Insight (unless stated otherwise on the metadata record) may be copied, displayed or performed, and stored in line with the JISC fair dealing guidelines (available here) for educational and not-for-profit activities provided that

- the authors, title and full bibliographic details of the item are cited clearly when any part of the work is referred to verbally or in the written form

- a hyperlink/URL to the original Insight record of that item is included in any citations of the work

- the content is not changed in any way

- all files required for usage of the item are kept together with the main item file.

You may not

- sell any part of an item

- refer to any part of an item without citation

- amend any item or contextualise it in a way that will impugn the creator’s reputation

- remove or alter the copyright statement on an item.

The full policy can be found here. Alternatively contact the University of Cumbria Repository Editor by emailing insight@cumbria.ac.uk.
Writing the Pain of Others: a Stroll with Disturbance

Rethinking ethical agency by way of practice-based research

Johanna Willenfelt, PhD Candidate (Fine Art), Cumbria Institute of the Arts
The project May and the Potentiality of Pain started its life as a text essay in Swedish originally called “May och smärta utan smärten”, published in Paletten Art Magazine no. 2: 2014-#196.

Rescripted, it turned into a conference presentation for the interdisciplinary event London Conference in Critical Thought (2014-06). (Archival images courtesy of The Women’s Library @LSE.)
A few months later, the paper presentation transformed into a lecture performance featuring a reading accompanied with a series of still images.

Scripting/Re-scripting is a strategy I use to intertwine my work presentations with the process of writing and becoming. It is important to me that the exhibited or performed artwork does not represent finality, much like a personalized feeling of pain does not represent pain intensities, or individual pain.

May and the Potentiality of Pain, the reading. Recorded at The University of Cumbria, Brampton road campus 2015-04.
TEXT-BECOMING
SCRIPTING PAIN
DOCUMENTING BODIES
It’s always three o’clock in the morning (2016), video excerpts
Even as I lay beside them every night

The habit of pain will govern my self

Instead of letting my body being regulated by men

I will regulate it through pain
References

