MACRO-ECONOMIC OVERVIEW

The first quarter of 2020 represents what is likely to be a major watershed in the development of the economy due to the direct and indirect effects of the Coronavirus pandemic. This phenomenon has had impacts on all sectors of the economy as well as all scales from local to global. The first cases of the new strain of Coronavirus disease were reported in the city of Wuhan in China in December 2019 (COVID-19) and early commentary on this focused on the potential economic consequences of an outbreak that was assumed to be not unlike SARS which during 2002-3 was contained mainly within the Far East. On 28th January 2020, the Director-General of the World Health Organisation, Dr Tefros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, met with President Xi Jinping of China to discuss collaboration in containing the outbreak in Wuhan and for China to share biological data with the World Health Organisation (WHO). The two sides agreed that the WHO would send international experts to visit China to increase understanding of the outbreak and guide global response (WHO News Release, 28th Jan 2020).

Comment from economics experts even in February tended to assume that the outbreak would have impacts on the global economy by depressing activity within China. Global economic recovery might be delayed by a fall in China's GDP growth with spillover effects on other economies via trade and tourism.¹ This view was widespread with discussions in the UK media concerning the threat to the UK visitor economy and potential failure of global supply chains that originate in China in particular; on 19th February 2020, a report on the BBC reported concerns about the cancellation of hotel bookings by Chinese tourists in Northern Ireland and difficulties experienced by coach companies obtaining vehicle components sourced from Chinese suppliers.

At its meeting ending January 29th 2020, on expectation of slight recovery or stabilisation of the global economy, the UK Bank of England Monetary Policy Committee voted to maintain the Bank rate at 0.75%. On 31st January, the UK officially “left” the European Union though little immediate change was expected as the UK entered a “transition phase” during which most EU Laws would stay in place until the end of December 2020. Meetings to discuss the new trading relationship between the EU and UK were scheduled with initial discussions held in Brussels from 2-5 March. The topics for discussion were significant and wide-ranging including transport, energy, fisheries, competition policy, mobility, law enforcement as well as trade in goods and services.

All of this changed dramatically after 11th March when the WHO designated Coronavirus as a global pandemic. On the same day, the Bank of England reduced the Bank rate to 0.25% coinciding with the UK Budget announcement of a £30bn package of measures to support the economy of the UK. Measures included support for small and medium-sized businesses to reclaim Statutory Sick Pay due to COVID-19; suspension of business rates for one year for shops, restaurants and music venues in England with a rateable value below £51,000 as well as a one-off cash grant of £10,000 for businesses eligible for Small Business rates relief. Cash grants of £25,000 were made available also to support SMEs in the hospitality sector. A new Business Interruption Loan Scheme was also introduced to support businesses in accessing bank lending and overdrafts – the first 6 months being interest free and backed by government. Many other significant spending commitments were made in the Budget for the NHS, education, transport infrastructure, flood defences, housing and the regions.

The scale of the crisis escalated with the announcement that schools, colleges and nurseries would close from 20th March until further notice while all pubs bars and restaurants were instructed to close from 21st March with support for businesses made available through the Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme, open to all UK employers for at least 3 months from 1st March 2020. The Scheme provides 80% of furloughed employees’ usual monthly wage cost up to £2,500 a month. On Monday 23rd March, movement restrictions were tightened on households to prevent the spread of disease. On 26th March, measures were introduced to support self-employed workers through a grant of 80% of their average monthly profits over the past three years up to £2,500 a month. The impacts of these various measures on economic indicators will clearly be considerable though data for this quarter pre-dates most of these effects (see table below). It is significant that economic forecasts published by the Treasury in March suggested an average of -0.8% fall in GDP for 2020; the average of new forecasts made in April, however indicate an expected fall of -5.8% with some scenarios as low as -10%.

CORPORATE CHANGE IN CUMBRIA: JANUARY-MARCH 2020

The last three months has been a tale of two worlds. No one will need reminding of the utter turmoil that Covid-19 has wreaked on people, the economy and businesses within it. Consequently, our reporting of corporate change in the County in tabular form has been split into two time-frames, those before and after mid-March which coincides roughly with the pre and post Covid-19 lockdown date of 23rd March.

Pre-lockdown, the vast majority of reports were of investment, innovation and growth. Indeed, the Cumbrian economy, in terms of corporate health, appeared to be striding forward in the aftermath of all of the economic and political uncertainty caused by Brexit.

The Manufacturing Sector was particularly strong with reports of growth, investment, partnerships and innovation. For example, Kendal Nutricare which produces Kendamil infant formula products and Kendalife shakes for adults is listed in the top 1,000 fastest growing companies in Europe. The Lakes Distillery at Setworthy intends to triple its production to 1.2M bottles of whisky per annum. It is investing heavily in equipment and warehousing in order to facilitate 24-hour distillation to support their aspiration of increasing sales in the UK, Europe, Asia and US markets. Of course, as firms grow, they may require new larger premises as seen this Quarter in the instances of Lakeland Artisan, Delkia, and The Handmade Ice Cream Company. Delkia, which designs and manufactures integrated systems for the nuclear and defence sectors, has opened a larger Head Quarters on the Bridge End Industrial Estate, Egremont. In the last twelve months, it is reported to have seen sales and turnover increase by 1,000 per cent and staff increase from 2 to 15.

Partnerships between firms making complementary products or providing complementary services has been a popular strategy for growth and innovation this quarter (see Komatsu Forest Ltd., Carabarlife, Bowston's Handsome Brewery, Forth Engineering, Hawkshead Relish and Urofoam). For example, Hawkshead Relish and The Handmade Ice Cream Company have collaborated to create a new Cherry and Prosecco Cheesecake Ice Cream. The former wanted to look at new ways to use their products and the latter wanted to change their flavour range which they do annually (IC, 23.2.20).

Pre-Covid 19, the retail and wholesale sector also witnessed many firms expanding and investing in new premises (see Stan Palmer, the NWF Group, Lloyd South Lakes BMW, Amazon, Pioneer, GW Auto Repairs, The Dreams Store, 1818 Auctioneers). Again, collaborations have helped retailers and suppliers reach new audiences (see Black Box Security Solutions, Inter Fresh). However, there have also been closures of a relatively large number of high street retailers across the County (see Pandora, Carphone Warehouse, Topshop, Edinburgh Woollen Mill, Beales, Laura Ashley and Bright House). For some, the coronavirus outbreak has been and still may be the last straw, seeing customers decline and shops close their doors permanently.

A sector which has also been greatly hit by the Coronavirus outbreak and of immense importance to the Cumbrian economy is that of Accommodation and Hospitality. In sharp contrast to the pre-Covid 19 lockdown period which saw much investment and growth in the Accommodation sector (see Pure Cottages Group, The Pheasant Inn, Skiddaw Hotel, The Victorian House, Storrs Hotel, The Yewdale Inn, Parkdean Resorts and The Swan), the closure of most hotels and other holiday accommodation in the last month will bring great economic losses.

In the post-Covid 19 lockdown period, we have witnessed diverse corporate outcomes and this has necessitated a different style of reporting. Firms can roughly be categorised in four ways according to their responses to the Government's call for social distancing, working from home where possible, the public staying at home and making sure that the NHS and Care sector have the resources to cope with the pandemic. Responses are as follows:

1. Closure and/or furloughing of workers
2. Reduction of production with a reduced workforce

3. Substitution of production in answer to the Government's pleas for manufacturers to make PPE and ventilation equipment
4. And increase in production or provision in response to panic-buying, consumer need and changes in patterns of consumption.

These responses have cut across sectors so that, for example, some manufacturers have closed (eg. Pirelli) whilst others have substituted normal production with that of necessary equipment for the NHS and Care sectors (eg. Forth Engineering, Wax Lyrical and Shed One). Some have seen changes in their delivery mechanisms (eg. Grasmere Gingerbread, The Lakes Distillery, Keswick Brewery). Some have generously donated supplies of PPE and clothing to the NHS and care sector in this region (eg. Sellafeld, TSP Engineering). Most retailers have closed but some have innovated in their products or delivery mechanisms to reach customers now stuck at home (eg. Caterite Food and Wine Service, Carvetti Coffee Roasters).

The Cumbria Chamber of Commerce is currently conducting a survey of how businesses are coping with the coronavirus pandemic. To date, 500 have replied and the prospects for survival are grim for many. It is clear that the implications of corporate change in the next quarter are going to be critical for the Cumbrian economy.
