

Harrison, Laura M.R. (2016) In lostness possibilities are found. In: NAFAE Conference: "Research Practice Practice Research", 15-16 July 2016, Lancaster, UK. (Unpublished)

Downloaded from: <http://insight.cumbria.ac.uk/id/eprint/2854/>

Usage of any items from the University of Cumbria's institutional repository 'Insight' must conform to the following fair usage guidelines.

Any item and its associated metadata held in the University of Cumbria's institutional repository Insight (unless stated otherwise on the metadata record) may be copied, displayed or performed, and stored in line with the JISC fair dealing guidelines (available here) for educational and not-for-profit activities provided that

- the authors, title and full bibliographic details of the item are cited clearly when any part of the work is referred to verbally or in the written form
 - a hyperlink/URL to the original Insight record of that item is included in any citations of the work
- the content is not changed in any way
- all files required for usage of the item are kept together with the main item file.

You may not

- sell any part of an item
- refer to any part of an item without citation
- amend any item or contextualise it in a way that will impugn the creator's reputation
- remove or alter the copyright statement on an item.

The full policy can be found here.

Alternatively contact the University of Cumbria Repository Editor by emailing insight@cumbria.ac.uk.

In Lostness Possibilities are Found:

Is it possible to define the value of lostness through contemporary art practice?

Laura M R Harrison

Institute of the Arts, University of Cumbria

On location, Beckfoot, July

2015

Lostness: It is all in the mind

Lostness: A feeling of being psychically lost: A vexation of spirit: the sense of being unsure what one is meant to be doing in life: of having unclear direction, desires or aims

Dictionary definition:

lost: adj 1 unable to find one's way: not knowing one's whereabouts: unable to be found: unable to understand or to cope with a situation. 2 that which has been taken away or cannot be recovered: (of time or an opportunity) not used advantageously; wasted: having died or been destroyed.

Oxford University Press 2005

Etymology:

lost (adj.): "defeated," c.1300: "wasted, spent in vain," c.1500; also "no longer to be found" (1520s), from past participle of lose.

www.etymonline.com

Darkness: A time of philosophising

Darkness: noun 1 the partial or total absence of light: night: the quality of being dark in colour 2 wickedness or evil: unhappiness or gloom: secrecy or mystery

Dark: adj 1 with little or no light: (of a theatre) closed; not in use 2 (of a colour or object): not reflecting much; approaching black in shade: (of someone's skin, hair or eyes) brown or black in colour: (of a person) having such skin, hair or eyes. 3 (of a period or situation) characterised by great unhappiness or unpleasantness: deeply pessimistic: (of an expression) angry: suggestive of or arising from evil; sinister 4 hidden from knowledge; mysterious. noun 1 (the dark) the absence of light in a place. [mass noun] nightfall. 2a a dark colour or shade, especially in a painting.

Getting out there: Creating art in the dark

GoPro camera and custom made boom arm, River Gelt, August 2014

Camera bag and rucksack, Tindale Tarn, February 2015

- Work always undertaken in darkness
- Locations would be easy to navigate in the dark
- Always work in solitude
- Carry a standard set of equipment
- Head torch as only source of light

GoPro camera and foldable grabber arm, Beckfoot, July 2015

From making to viewing: Installation Art

'There is always a reciprocal relationship of some kind between the viewer and the work, the work and the space, and the space and the viewer... In creating an installation, the artist treats an entire indoor space as a single situation... The spectator is in some way regarded as integral to the completion of the work.'

Julie H. Reiss
(1999, p. xiii)

'Installation... adheres to the fundamental definition of the postmodern art object as "neither exclusionary nor reductive, but synthetic, freely enlisting the full range of conditions, experiences, and knowledge beyond the object. Therefore, far from seeking a single and complete experience, the Post-Modern object strives toward an encyclopaedic condition, allowing a myriad of access points, infinitude of interpretive responses.'

Faye Ran quoting Howard Fox
(2009, pp. 46-47)

'Installation art's multiple perspectives are seen to subvert the Renaissance perspective model because they deny the viewer any one ideal place from which to survey the work'

Claire Bishop
(2005, p. 13)

The alternative space: Unit 12, Warwick Mill

The inquisitive explorer: The light of the torch

Keyring torches given to the audience at It matters to no one where we are (Sept 2014) and later at In the Presence of Darkness (Sept 2015)

The inquisitive explorer: The light of the torch

'Rather than heightening awareness of our perceiving body and its physical boundaries, these dark installations suggest our dissolution; they seem to dislodge or annihilate our sense of self...'

Claire Bishop
(2005, p.82)

'A lantern or flashlight casting its rays into the night serves to illuminate a path but also separate and isolate us from the embracing dark, calling attention to our individualised and atomised selves.'

David Macauley
(2009, p.64)

